LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

Jack Herbert

As we begin a new year, I am filled with gratitude for our truly outstanding Pius XI Community. Each page of this magazine tells a story of faith in action, lifelong impact, and a community that continues to believe deeply in the mission of Pius XI Catholic High School.

As you read through this edition of Examen, the issue opens by celebrating the incredible ways our alumni carry the Pius XI spirit into the world. In our feature on Popes in professional and Division 1 athletics (page 4), you'll meet alumni whose careers have taken them far beyond our campus, yet remain firmly rooted in the values they learned here. I am also incredibly excited to share the details of a truly transformational moment in our school's history with the establishment of the "Pius XI Sitzberger Field House" (page 8). Fred Sitzberger '71's extraordinary $2 million gift is a powerful testament to the lifelong impact of a Pius XI education and the generosity that sustains our mission for generations to come. Because of supporters like Fred, we are able to strengthen our campus, retire longstanding debt, and invest confidently in the future of our students.

We also highlight the vibrancy of Pius XI today: from a successful Popesfest that once again brought our community together in celebration and support (page 12), to highlights from our fall and winter athletics seasons (page 10), where Popes competed with heart, grit, and academic excellence. Our performing arts previews (page 17) and school event pictorials (page 16) showcase the creativity, joy, and talent alive in our hallways every day.

On page 18 you will read about Tom Hoyer '62, an alumnus, parent of alumni, veteran and passionate member of our community and his experience on a recent Stars and Stripes Honor Flight. This story is a humbling reminder that the values formed at Pius XI, service to others, love of country, and faith, echo across a lifetime.

You'll also find updates from alumni near and far, moments to remember those who have gone before us, and a transparent look at our annual financial report. Together, these pages reflect not only where we are today, but the strong foundation that makes our future possible.

To our alumni, parents, donors, faculty, staff, and friends I want to say, "thank you!" Your prayers, generosity, and belief in Pius XI make every story in this magazine possible. I hope this issue leaves you inspired, encouraged, and proud to be part of this remarkable community.

With gratitude and excitement for what lies ahead,

CALLED TO LEAD BEYOND THE SPOTLIGHT: Popes in Pro and D1 Sports

Pius XI alumni are having a remarkable impact in all walks of life. Alumni Director Dan Carey '00 recently caught up with four Pius XI alumni whose careers have taken them into the world of professional and Division I collegiate athletics. Interviews have been edited for length, while preserving the spirit of each conversation.

Connor Senger '13

Pass Game Specialist, Arizona Cardinals Football Club

Tell us about your current job and how you got there.

CS: I work closely with the offensive coordinator, quarterback coach, and quarterbacks. I take a heavy role in game planning for the upcoming opponent, and help with play selection on game day. I present to the offensive unit at the beginning of every game week, providing them with an overview on the upcoming opponent, what they do schematically, and who they are from a personnel standpoint. I also study league-wide film and see what trends continue to show up, and how we can implement them in our offense as well. My path started by first playing college football at UW-Madison, then UW-Oshkosh. I began coaching as a student in 2017 due to injuries. I then went on to coach at Carroll University in Waukesha, UW-Whitewater, and North Dakota State University, before getting a call from the Cardinals.

What is the coolest thing (or favorite thing) you get to do in your job?

CS: The best part about my job is the relationships that I have built along the way with players and staff members. There is so much more that goes into football than the three hours the fans see on a Saturday or Sunday. This continues to be a relationship business, and keeping that at the forefront remains the most important thing. Friendships have been built that will last a lifetime at every level I have coached. Belonging to something bigger than myself is also very important. Knowing that I'm working with a 53-man roster, a 20-plus coaching staff, and countless support staff members all striving for one common goal also makes this job very rewarding. The opportunity to compete has always been something that has driven me, and to be able to do it at the highest level of this sport is something that I don't take for granted.

How did Pius XI prepare you for life beyond high school?

CS: My time at Pius XI has helped me countless times throughout my journey in football. First, the interactive and vast community that exists at Pius XI has allowed me to be put in situations with people that I would not have had the opportunity to do elsewhere. Secondly, the independent thinking and problem-solving skills I learned and used on a day-to-day basis is something that has become very useful in my career, and I never present an issue without some idea for a solution.

Paul Szefc '95

Division I NCAA Men's Basketball Official

Tell us about your current job and how you got there.

PS: I officiate games across the country in the Big Ten, Big East, ACC, Big 12, and SEC, among other conferences. I have worked 10 consecutive NCAA Tournaments, including the 2023 and 2024 Final Fours. I began officiating during my senior year at Pius XI, after being approached by local referees who had worked games in which I played. Although I wasn't sure officiating would suit a former player who often questioned calls, I agreed to give it a try—and I was quickly hooked. I started by working youth basketball games on weekends. Officiating became an ideal part-time job during my years at the University of Wisconsin, where I progressed to high school contests. I continued moving up each level, eventually earning seven consecutive WIAA State Tournament assignments in Madison. I also officiated NCAA Division III and Division II games before transitioning to a full Division I schedule 23 years ago. I never expected officiating to become my career, but it has been both rewarding and challenging—a journey I'm grateful for.

What is the coolest thing (or favorite thing) you get to do in your job?

PS: Officiating allows me to stay connected to a game I love in a unique and meaningful way. It has also given me opportunities to give back to a sport that has shaped my life. Refereeing is a demanding pursuit—you strive for perfection each night, fully aware that perfection is unattainable. The goal is excellence, and in many ways, that pursuit mirrors life. This career has afforded me the chance to travel the country and the world. There are still moments when I have to stop and appreciate how remarkable it is that a kid from TAC 416 (shout-out to Mr. Frohna) gets to walk onto the court at iconic venues like Madison Square Garden or officiate a game on the deck of the U.S.S. Abraham Lincoln. The odds of that journey becoming reality were slim, and I'm incredibly grateful it has been mine.

How did Pius XI prepare you for life beyond high school?

PS: My experiences as both a student and an athlete at Pius XI played a significant role in preparing me for my professional life. On a practical level, I was fortunate to learn the game alongside outstanding coaches, talented teammates, and relentless competitors—all of whom sharpened my understanding of basketball. Any successful official needs a strong "feel" for the game, and that instinct was shaped in the old second-floor gym. More broadly, my education at Pius XI instilled in me values that guide my work every day: fairness, sound judgment, conviction to stand for what is right—even in the face of strong opposition—and the importance of treating everyone with equal respect. These Christian values were central to our education and translate directly to my responsibilities on the court. I am grateful that Pius XI equipped me with both the practical skills and the value-based foundation needed for success in my career and in life.

Randy Olewinski '76

Senior Director - Security, Milwaukee Brewers Baseball Club

Tell us about your current job and how you got there.

RO: I started working for the Milwaukee Brewers in a security capacity after graduating from Concordia University. I continued working part-time in security for the Brewers while working in law-enforcement for 27 years. Upon retiring from the Franklin Police Department, I was honored to be appointed the first full-time Director of Security for the Milwaukee Brewers Baseball Club. In my current role, I am responsible for creating and strengthening our security posture and leading the development of comprehensive strategies that protect our fans, employees' assets, and operations.

What is the coolest thing (or favorite thing) you get to do in your job?

RO: Not many people get to say their "office" includes the ballpark, dugouts, player tunnels, and field views. One of the most rewarding aspects of the role is establishing strong relationships with players, staff, outside agencies and fans, while creating an environment where everyone feels supported, respected, and safe.

How did Pius XI prepare you for life beyond high school?

RO: The coaches and staff at Pius XI had a huge impact on me. They taught me about teamwork and supporting each other. The experiences at Pius XI were so impactful that I returned to Pius XI and coached basketball in the boys program for 20 years. These experiences continued in my professional career and at Concordia University where I competed on the basketball team and served as team captain. I am most grateful for the relationships I developed at Pius XI that continue today, especially the tight bond I have formed with several of my classmates, including the teammates on the 1976 State Champion Basketball team.

Tony Migliaccio '81

Director - Clubhouse Operations, Milwaukee Brewers Baseball Club

Tell us about your current job and how you got there.

TM: I started as a bat boy/clubhouse attendant as a 15-year-old freshman. Forty-nine years later, I'm still with the Brewers as Director of Clubhouse Operations. In my 40-plus years with the team you can literally say I have done and seen it all in the clubhouse.

What is the coolest thing (or favorite thing) you get to do in your job?

TM: Helping people! We assist the players, coaches, and a large support staff, managing the daily grind of a seven plus month major league baseball season. Everything behind the scenes our staff coordinates – from travel, rental cars, and housing, to equipment and clubhouse needs.

How did Pius XI prepare you for life beyond high school?

TM: Pius XI educated me academically and spiritually at a very young age. The core values that were instilled have carried with me through my entire life. Many of the teachers and Catholic priests were there to support me after losing a parent as a freshman. I will always be grateful for their support during that difficult time in my life.

MORE THAN MEMORIES: TOM SCHREINER '73

Dedicated to preserving the rich history of Pius XI Athletics.

What began as a one-time request—gathering memories and statistics for the 50th reunion of the 1972 State Football Championship—has grown into a passion project for alum Tom Schreiner '73, who jumped at the invitation from former Athletic Committee Chair, Joe Chernelich '76 to become Pius XI's de facto athletic historian.

Over the past three years, Schreiner has devoted countless hours to preserving the school's athletic legacy. He has carefully combed through yearbooks, rosters, record boards, articles, and memorabilia to ensure Pius XI's history is accurately documented. His work resulted in a comprehensive athletics history outlining head coaches by season, along with conference and state championship titles across decades. He also compiled a Hall of Fame history chronicling inductees since its inception. Most recently, Schreiner has focused on creating a database of all varsity athletes by sport—a project now nearly 95% complete.

Schreiner was part of several state championship teams, including the 1972 football team and 1975 and 1976 basketball teams. As a student, he served as team manager for football and basketball and later returned as a statistician while attending the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. He credits coaches Ron Wied '59 and Joe Buneta '52 with shaping his character through lessons in hard work and confidence.

"I got a great education. I love the school. I loved my four years there, but I tell you, I remember my coaches," he shared. "Ron Wied and Joe Buneta influenced my life more than anyone after my family and parents." Schreiner says this project has reconnected him to his alma mater after years away while he and his wife, Margaret, raised their family and built careers.

"I've reunited with people and met people I never knew," he said. "It's got me excited. I'm back involved, donating both my time and financially."

$2 MILLION GIFT UNLOCKS FIELD HOUSE NAMING RIGHTS

Home of the Mighty Popes becomes “Sitzberger Field House”

F. Sitzberger

When Fred Sitzberger '71 reflects on the success he has achieved in his career and life, he points to the discipline and values shaped by his Catholic education and the educators who inspired a strong work ethic. In early December, Pius XI joyfully announced Sitzberger's $2 million gift commitment—a generous tribute to the opportunities his education made possible.

places that educated me where I’m giving my money.”

After graduating from Pius XI, Sitzberger earned his accounting degree from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee and went on to found his accounting practice, Sitzberger & Company, which became one of the largest and fastest growing accounting firms in Wisconsin. He sold the practice in 2022, retaining his investment management firm, Bultman Investment Management.

With this gift, the Pius XI Catholic High School Field House will be officially known as the Pius XI Sitzberger Field House.

“Pius XI is blessed to have nearly 30,000 alumni and we speak often about the many ways those alumni make us proud,” commented President Jack Herbert. “Fred is a shining example of this. He’s enjoyed an outstanding career, building successful businesses and now he has leveraged that success to make a transformative gift that will have a significant impact on Pius XI and the students we serve.”

Sitzberger’s gift, along with two additional six-figure contributions from anonymous donors, allowed Pius XI to retire the remaining $3.25 million in field house construction debt in late October. Completed in 2004, the Field House is now fully debt-free—a milestone that addresses a key piece of the financial sustainability goal pillar vision outlined in the strategic plan, strengthening the school’s financial position.

“Pius XI is blessed to have nearly 30,000 alumni and we speak often about the many ways those alumni make us proud. Fred is a shining example of this. He’s enjoyed an outstanding career, building successful businesses and now he has leveraged that success to make a transformative gift that will have a significant impact on Pius XI and the students we serve.”

- President Jack Herbert

Sitzberger hopes his gift will inspire other alumni to support the mission of Pius XI.

"It gives me a great amount of joy," Sitzberger remarked. "When you give to help others, it creates a goodness inside of you and you feel you've done the right thing. The right thing in business, the right thing in relationships, the right thing in life."

Exterior signage recognizing Mr. Sitzberger's was installed in mid-January, 2026. A ribbon-cutting ceremony will be planned to celebrate the signage reveal at a later date. In addition, Sitzberger will be honored with the XI Impact Award at the Spring Auction, Pius XI: Growing the Future, on May 7, 2026, at the Italian Community Center.

"When you give to help others, it creates a goodness inside of you and you feel you've done the right thing. The right thing in business, the right thing in relationships, the right thing in life."

XI IMPACT AWARD

Honoring those whose support helps Pius XI empower a diverse community of students to 'Be More You' and realize their unique, God-given potential.

The XI Impact Award honors the individuals and families whose exceptional commitment advances Catholic education and supports the mission of Pius XI Catholic High School. The award recognizes leadership, compassion, and service that have made a lasting impact on our community.

Past honorees include Pat Frederick '67 for her decades-long leadership in building Pius XI's nationally recognized Visual Arts Program and the Raymonds Family for their dedication to making a Pius XI education accessible through the Hank and Linda Raymonds Endowed Scholarships.

Additional past auction awards have recognized Dr. Kathleen Cepelka, Mike Stefaniak '81, Judge Audrey Skwierawski '85, Most Reverend Jerome Listeki, Archbishop Emeritus, and the 2019-20 Faculty.

CULTIVATING CAMPUS FAITH: PIUS XI POPES AT WORK AT MARQUETTE UNIVERSITY

Marquette University, one of the country's largest Jesuit universities, lies a mere 6 miles east of Pius XI. Many Popes have called MU their academic home over the years and currently two members of our Pius XI community are making an incredible impact in the faith lives of students on campus. We sat down with them to learn more about their powerful work. Interviews have been edited for length, while preserving the spirit of each conversation.

Steve Blaha '92 | Director - Campus Ministry,
Marquette University

Tell us about your current job and how you got there.

SB: As Director of Campus Ministry, I oversee the University's spiritual formation and support for all students on campus. Marquette University has a wonderful Catholic, multi-faith community.

We serve students of all faith traditions here and foster their growth and relationship with God, as well as growth in their capacity to enter into and practice discernment, which is an important Jesuit value. It's an exciting job overseeing a great team of ministers who walk daily with our students in supporting their growth, offering programs and a vibrant faith-life on campus.

Pius XI is a huge part of why I'm here. I fell in love with theology classes in high school. I had great teachers and thought, "Is this what I'm being called to in life?" My journey and discernment included great courses at Pius XI and moved me into the field of education. After a lot of twists and turns in the road, I was led to Marquette and campus ministry. I'm grateful every day for the education I received at Pius XI and the inspiration from teachers like Bob Pauly, Deb Steck, Sue Lovinus, and Tom Chmielewski.

What is the coolest thing (or favorite thing) you get to do in your job?

SB: Definitely the students. I love working with students one-on-one or with student teams, helping them grow their leadership skills and their understanding of faith, while also working through their faith questions. I love providing opportunities for students to encounter one another in new ways, facilitating interfaith dialogue.

I do a lot of sacramental preparation work and that's a great joy because students bring their questions and the realities of their lives and want to talk about where God is in the midst of all of it. At MU folks come to us from everywhere and they are here for four years. Sometimes we see them again and that's always exciting, but for the vast majority of students, we hope they're going out and sharing with the world what they've received here.

From your perspective, what are the long-term benefits of a faith-based high school education?

SB: For me, I believe it's the number one best investment that a family can make in the life of a young person because it provides them with a space in a holistic way to really engage who they are and who they are being created and invited to be. There's an opportunity for them to really grow and engage in their relationship with God during a time when all their relationships are changing and will continue to, it helps them grow and develop a faith that is geared towards a more adult faith life. It helps them to move beyond their grade school level of faith and allows their faith and relationship with God to grow with them as they are developing and tackling all of the big questions they're experiencing. The Catholic tradition can hold all of those questions. A Catholic education is an incredible way of helping students continue to live as people of faith throughout their lives. It's critical for their development.

Vevette Hiff-Nwagbaraocha

Parent to three Pius XI Alumni, Vivevca '14, Vashti '15, & Victor '17
Assistant Director - Campus Ministry, Marquette University

Tell us about your current job and how you support students.

VH: In my position I am in charge of the Midnight Run program, a long-standing, student-led volunteer program in which students go out into the Milwaukee community and provide volunteer service on a weekly basis. I'm also responsible for the Marquette Action Program (MAP), another long-standing program which runs during spring break. It's an immersive experience in which students go out to three locations to learn about service, community, and social justice. I also oversee Marquette's participation in Project Homeless Connect, a one-day annual event that happens in partnership with Milwaukee County and the United Way to provide those struggling with housing and food insecurity with resources. On a daily basis I'm working with students, particularly those of African descent, on pastoral outreach. My job is really supporting their faith and removing any barriers they have so they can spiritually ground themselves. At Marquette University, with its Jesuit foundation, education is paramount in that it is feeding the human spirit—it's an academic education and a spiritual education, awakening and encouraging lifelong learning. We do a lot of accompanying the students on their spiritual journeys.

What do you love the most about your role?

VH: Hands down what I love most about my job is the opportunity to work with the students. It's truly fulfilling and I feel so incredibly blessed to be able to encourage them and see some of the fruits of their faith walk even in a short amount of time. Last night I had a chance to attend an event with a student I've been working with since her freshman year. She's involved with a new organization that supports young people with eating disorders. I was truly honored that she asked me to attend. That in and of itself was huge, but also I got to see another side of her life and God gave me an opportunity to put the two sides together. That's not something you always see. It's a reminder that every interaction matters. It's truly for God's glory and the good of His people.

From your perspective, what are the long-term benefits of a faith-based high school education?

VH: Faith is about endurance. It's a muscle that you build. Yes, ideally it starts at home, but that's not the only place it can come from and I think the younger you start, it doesn't mean the easier life is going to be, but it does mean that you have the greatest tool there is to get through what it is that you have to go through. People find their faith at different points along the way. It's already inside of you. Sometimes it just takes somebody else saying, "you've got this." It's a grace, it's a gift that many of us are walking around with and we don't even know. In high school to be able to realize that, when we're the least jaded that we're ever going to be—what a wonderful gift.

“Pius XI was truly a transformational chapter in my life, especially in nurturing my faith. Choosing a faith-based education for college was a deliberate decision to build upon the foundation laid at Pius XI. It allowed me to continue integrating faith into my learning and into the way I engage with the world around me.”

HONOR FLIGHT PROVIDES FULL CIRCLE MOMENT FOR ONE PIUS XI FAMILY

Tom Hoyer's lifelong commitment to service—reflected in decades of giving back to Pius XI as a former Board and committee member and loyal donor—began with service to our country. Hoye '62 was drafted in 1968 and deployed to Vietnam.

His connection to Vietnam didn't end after 365 days of deployment, however. In 1975, he and his wife, Letty, adopted their oldest son, Tim '93, after Tim was rescued from a communist orphanage and brought to the United States with other Vietnamese children through a mission known as Operation Babylift. It seems fitting that Tom and Tim were able to experience the Honor Flight together this past November, during the 50th anniversary year of the mission that made them a family.

The Stars and Stripes Honor Flight takes veterans and their guardians from Milwaukee to Washington, D.C. for a day full of honor and thanks.

For Tom, one of the most powerful moments of the day was the welcome at Mitchell Field when they returned home. "There must have been 800 people there for us, including our family members, and they had signs," commented Tom. "To keep from crying, I would go up to everyone and thank them for being there. It was just something else—wow."

Tim was moved, seeing his dad and other veterans receive the respect and gratitude they deserve. "In one of the most divisive times in politics in our country, it was amazing to see the love, respect, and welcome people gave these veterans," he commented. "Dad never got tired of hearing the 'thank you's.' It was a once-in-a-lifetime experience."

Operation Babylift gave the Hoyer Family its start. Tom and Letty would go on to adopt three more children stateside—John '94, Sarah '97, and Anne '01.

Each Honor Flight includes Mail Call, a special surprise for veterans who receive cards and letters from family, friends, and the community. The on-flight event is intended to be a nostalgic throwback to their deployment. The Pius XI community sent more than 75 notes for Tom, including special cards from Ms. Mary Talsky '81's American Government class and Mrs. Michele Griffin '92's TAC 417. Tim Hoyer shared that his dad received more than 140 letters total. "The woman who organized our training told me she had never seen more mail sent to a veteran," Tim remarked. "It was all because of Pius XI students and staff."

2024 - 2025 FINANCIAL OVERVIEW

JULY 1, 2024 - JUNE 30, 2025

Dear Pius XI Community,

The 2024-2025 fiscal year was one of meaningful growth, and a continued commitment to the Pius XI core values of Service, Excellence, Integrity, Inclusion and Community. I am pleased to share an overview of our financial performance and the ways in which your support and generosity allowed us to strengthen the transformational experience we provide to every student.

Our overall revenue increased last year. At the same time, our expenses also grew. A significant portion of this increase came from enhanced security measures that were put in place in response to a security threat on campus in Fall 2024 and increased threats and incidents across the county. Pius XI leadership made the decision to maintain the new security measures permanently, to ensure an environment where students can learn, grow and thrive with confidence. Because of these added costs, we closed the year with an operating loss. While no organization welcomes a deficit, this outcome reflects our deliberate choice to prioritize student well-being and the long-term strength of our school community.

With your continued generosity and prayers, we are excited for the years ahead. We will keep focusing on mission-centered stewardship - investing wisely, planning faithfully, and ensuring that our school remains a place where academic excellence, Catholic identity, and a joyful community flourish.

Thank you for all you do to support our students and our shared mission.

Sincerely,

Katie Esterle
Director of Finance

Pius XI is blessed to have received support in the 2024-2025 fiscal year from alumni, current families, alumni parents, corporations, foundations, and other friends and community supporters who value our mission and have chosen to invest in our students' success. Contributions help fund the POPES Fund, providing operational support for the people, opportunities, programs, experiences, and supplies that make a Pius XI education special, as well as special projects.

In keeping with our mission, we are proud to have supported 96% of our students through grants, financial aid, and scholarships.

THE LEGACY SOCIETY

Our Legacy Society honors and recognizes couples and individuals who have expressed their desire to include Pius XI Catholic High School in their estate plans. Members of The Legacy Society include alumni, parents, and friends who wish to support and sustain the mission for future Popes. You become a member of the Legacy Society by notifying our Advancement Team that you have made arrangements to remember Pius XI Catholic High School through a planned gift. The following individuals have notified the school of their intentions as of June 30, 2025. If you have made such arrangements and wish to be recognized in the future as a member of this important group, please contact Vice President of Advancement Michelle Pape at mpape@piusxi.org or 414-290-8162.
